FOREST VIEW

The farmers of this vicinity are getting busy preparing for another crop.

Mr. Willie Overby purchased a new horse at Appomattox Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Berkley Nash, of Lynchburg, moved to the home of his father, J. T. Nash, last week where he will farm this year.

The farmers met Mr. Byrne at Petty's Fork school house last Friday week to attend to some business, owing to not hearing it in time many of the members could not be present.

The measles always seems to find a partner, Miss Eula Cheatham has just recovered from them and then Miss Erna Wooldrige was the next victim she is getting along nicely and now Mr. Joe Booker Reynolds has it

Messrs. Jesse and Perlie Jones entertained a number of young people Friday night week and all reported a nice time.

Mrs. Ola Patteson and daughter Mrs. Lewis Doss and Miss Ilene Smith were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Nash on the night of the 9th.

Misses Cassie and Eva Nash spent the week-end with the Misses Nash at High View.

Mr. B. N. Tanner is on the sick list.

Mr. R. W. Martin has been some what indisposed but out again.

STONEWALL

Mrs. J. M. Street left Saturday for Washington on a short visit to her brother, Mr. Davis.

Mr. Edwood Alvis, of Clifton Forge, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Alvis.

LESSON FOR MARCH 25

REVIEW

JESUS THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

GOLDEN TEXT—This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.—1 Timothy 1:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Favorite Story of the Quarter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Favorite Lessons of the Quarter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Luke's Picture of Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Lessons From Luke's Gospel.

The method of review must be determined by the grade of the class, by the use of the teachers and by the nature of the studies of the quarter. Three methods are suggested:

(1) Questioning in the Topic—Jesus the World's Savior. This method is suggested by Doctor Cranfield.

1. The World's Literature.
1. From Diseases. Lessons 1, 5.
2. From "Legalism." Lesson 1.
3. From Pride. Lessons 2, 6.
4. From Selfishness. Lessons 2, 5.
5. From Prejudice. Lesson 7.
6. From the Sinful Past. Lesson 7.

II. The World's Teacher.
1. About Sin and Salvation. Lesson 8.
2. About Human Duty:
(a) To Others. Lessons 2, 4.
(b) To God. Lessons 5, 8, 9.
(c) To State. Lesson 3.
(d) With Money. Lessons 4, 8, 9.
3. About Prayer. Lesson 6.

III. The World's Savior. Lessons 10.
1. Sacrifice Keyed, Accepted. Lesson 2.
2. Sacrifice Rendered. Lesson 11.
(2) Modern Applications of the Lessons. This scheme calls for reports by members of the class to whom assignments were previously made. This is taken from Peloubet's Notes.

Lesson I. Each student should we keep of the old-time Sabbath?"

Lesson II. "Why is it hard to be humble today?"

Lesson III. "Are our churches really open to the prodigals?"

Lesson IV. "What should our rich men do for our Lazaruses?"

Lesson V. "Men and women who deserve much gratitude and receive little."

Lesson VI. "What may we reasonably expect from prayer?"

Lesson VII. "Why it is hard for a modern business man to be a Christian?"

Lesson VIII. "How the church should utilize its average members."

Lesson IX. "How can we get our church members to give as much as they should?"

Lesson X. "Things that Christians do not grieve enough over."

Lesson XI. "The Christ-passage of the ages in this and made emotional drawings of human bodies which he dissected with his own hands.

Lesson XII. "The Triumphant Entry of the Christ."

(3) The Central Teaching of the Lessons:

Lesson I. There is no malady of man connected with soul or body which Jesus cannot heal.

Lesson II. Unselfishness will move one to humbly take the lowest place in life, esteeming others better than himself.

Lesson III. God is longing and willing to welcome in the truest sense the sinner who comes with contrition of heart.

Lesson IV. The one who lives only for this life shall surely suffer agony and torment in the life to come.

Lesson V. Ingratitude is common to the human heart. The Lord expects those who experience His salvation to give Him their love.

Lesson VI. Those who pray to God in the right spirit shall surely get the blessings sought.

Lesson VII. The supreme purpose of the coming of Jesus Christ to the earth, taking upon Himself our humanity, and dying on the cross was to save lost men.

Lesson VIII. Upon those who have not been faithful in the use of gifts the Lord shall execute judgment at His coming.

Lesson IX. We are responsible to God, but God measures our gifts by the extent of our ability.

Lesson X. Bitter agony was suffered by Christ when He bore our sins.

Lesson XI. In Christ's death a full price was paid for our sins.

What God Remembers.

"I," says God, "will remember." How sweet to think of what God will, and what He will not, remember! He will remember his own covenant, but He will not remember His people's sins. The cross, which ruthless the former, puts away the latter.—G. H. McIntosh.

God's Offer.

Back of our ignorance and uncertainty, God meets with His offer of wisdom and guidance to all who will ask it.

No True Picture.

There is no truer picture of what history reveals than a crucifix.—Rev. G. A. Studrert Kennedy.

The Lie.

Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle that fits them all.—O. W Holmes.

Problem Confronts Satan.

"If all de reports 'bout sinners is true," said Uncle Eben, "it looks like ol' Satan was gwine have his troubles wif de hoss' problem."—Washington Evening Star.

Why—

The system of party government has been defined as a method by which people elect six men in favor of a thing, and six others against it, and then wonder why nothing is done.

For Commissioner of Revenue

To my friends and the voters of Appomattox county:

I am glad to state that my health is improving and I hope as soon as the weather opens to be able to attend to the duties of my office as usual. I have engaged the services of Mr. James H. O'Brien, R. F. D. 3, Appomattox, Va., as my Deputy, who will assist me in my work, and I assure you, it will be done promptly and efficiently.

To set at rest the question of my candidacy, I wish to state here and now that I am a candidate to succeed myself as Commissioner of the Revenue, subject to the Democratic Primary to be held next August. While I may not be able to see and talk with you at your homes this Spring, as formerly, I trust to have that same friendly support you have heretofore given me which I have always appreciated more than I can tell you.

Your friend,

E. R. ABBITT

FOR SUPERVISOR

To the Voters of Appomattox County:

I have been requested by many of my friends to announce myself for Supervisor. I have decided to come out in the Democratic primary in August of this year. Sincerely yours,

R. H. DAVIS.

Order of Publication.

In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the County of Appomattox on the 22th day of February, 1923. Kate Lester and William Lester, her husband, Plaintiffs, against

Davy Baker, R. R. Davis, Tom. Randall, Ella Baker, Edgar Baker, Hilbig Randall, Annie Randall and Rona Randall, the last four infants under twenty-one years of age, Defendants.

The object of this suit is to have partition of a tract of land containing 47 acres more or less, which John Baker, Sr., died seized and possessed, located in Clover Hill District, about a mile west of Pamplin, on the headwaters of Harsepen Creek, and adjoining the lands of the Plaintiffs and others.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that the defendants, Davy Baker, Tom Randall and Ella Baker, are not residents of the State of Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within ten days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit. And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Times-Virginian, a newspaper published in the County of Appomattox, and that a copy be posted at the front door of the Court-house of this County on or before the 5th day of March, 1923, that being the next succeeding Rule Day after this order was entered.

For County Treasurer

To the voters of Appomattox County:

I take this method to announce my candidacy to succeed myself for the office of County Treasurer.

I wish t othank the people of the County for their loyal support in the past, and assure them that I have endeavored to the best of my ability to prove worthy of their confidence imposed in me.

If re-elected I shall continue to give to the people the same prompt and efficient service which I have endeavored to render in the past.

I am a Democrat and submit my claims to the Democratic Primary.

R. F. BURKE.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER

To The Voters of Appomattox County:

I am receiving numerous requests from all sections of the County to announce myself a Candidate for County Treasurer, and appreciating as I do these kindly expressions, I have decided to enter the contest for this office, subject to the result of the Democratic Primary to be held in August of this year.

There are a number of matters of great interest to the tax-payers and citizens of the County that may be discussed as the Campaign progresses, and for this reason I hope you will not be in tob much of a hurry to commit yourself to anyone.

I will appreciate your support, and will see every voter in person, if possible. In the meantime I am counting on your support.

Sincerely yours;

A. R. HARWOOD.

FOR SUPERVISOR

To Thr Voters of Clover Hill Dist. Appomattox County, Va.

Ladies and Gentleman:

I announce myself a candidate for the office of supervisor of this district subject to the action of the Primary to be held next August. I promise if nominated and elected to serve you faithfully and honestly and to distribute the road funds equally all over the district. I expect to see and talk with everyone of you between now and election day. Hoping to have your vote and influence if with it goes your good will.

Surprise Party At Spout Spring In Honor of Departing Teacher

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Allen was the scene of a surprise party on the evening of Friday, April 27, when the young people of the community gathered there in honor of Miss Edna Perrow, one of the popular teachers of Spout Spring High School the past session. These charming young "school marms" have a wonderful way of making friends both in and out of school. We presume these little surprise festivities are intended to somewhat lessen the sad hour of parting. Be that as it may, the young people gathered in and made a delightful evening of it for all present with laughter and indoor games.

Some thoughtful person must have given the hospitable hostess a hint of the surprise to have made possible those delightful refreshments that were served in the course of the evening.

Among those present were: Misses Helen Dickerson, Mamie Colley, Ebenezer Collins, Eleanor Chamberlayne, Louise Shirey, Virginia Shirey, Nellie Bates, Lena Bates, Lucy Chick, Susie Bates, Messrs George Shirey, Thomas Collins, Billie Steele, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Steele and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dickerson.

It costs nothing to look on the bright side of life, but brooding on the dark side is an expensive habit. Occasionally we hear of a woman who doesn't wear the family pants. She wears the whole suit.

A good way to overcome trouble is to refuse to recognize it as such.

Last Call!

Don't fail to pay your capitation taxes by Saturday night if you wish to vote in this year's election, either for county officers, members of the legislature, or on the road bond question. This is the last call!

DISEASE CAME FROM EUROPE

No Record Of, or Name for, Malaria, Has Been Found Among the American Indians.

The slow diseases which sap vitality do not have spectacular records, but in the long run the damage which they do is incalculably greater than that of epidemics, writes Herbert J. Spinden in the World's Work. Malaria, for instance, is a greater obstacle today to the development of the tropics than yellow fever ever was, although the latter could accomplish much at one fell swoop. For one thing the effects of malaria reach around the globe and into nearly all its habitable parts.

The three kinds of malaria are described by the Greek physician Hippocrates and the names which we use today are of Roman origin. The two-day fever is called tertian, or third, because the Romans counted both ends of any numerical sequence, and the three-day fever is called quartan, which means fourth. There is no good evidence that malaria existed in America before the discovery. We do not find terms for it in American Indian language nor do we find any records that the early explorers suffered from this disease. For instance Cortez led an army across the base of the peninsula of Yucatan, through a region of swamps and flooded streams where today malaria is rife in every village, yet we find no mention of this illness among any of his troops or Indian burden bearers.

EVERGREEN

Who can go through the woods now and not be inspired by the beauty of nature. The wild flowers line the road and the trees are putting on their coat of green.

There was a large crowd at the B. Y. P. U. Sunday night and much interest manifested. Mr. Ohma Jones is manager and Miss Madian Lee pianist.

We regret very much to hear Mr. C. S. McDearmon will soon leave us to take up his duties as agent at Appomattox. Our loss is Appomattox's gain.

Miss Mattie Farrar, of Lynchburg, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Farrar Sunday.

Mrs. J. R. Hamilton, and John Kent Hamilton, who have been very ill with measles are improving.

Mrs. E. E. Walker, of Phenix were the week-end guest of friends here last week.

SPOUT SPRINGS

Miss Edna Perrow, one of our popular young teachers left for her home in Remington on Monday.

The Spout Spring High School commencement was a grand success and was enjoyed by all.

Miss Eleanor Collins, of Lynchburg, spent the week-end with Miss Helen Dickerson and attended the commencement exercises of Spout Spring High School.

Misses Ellen and Frances Chamberlayne, of Roanoke were week-end visitors of their aunt, Mrs. H. S. Jones.

Miss Martha Worley had as her guest for the week-end her niece, Miss Dorothy Worley, of Lynchburg.

Measles is prevalent in our community. Misses Virginia Holt and Erna Dickerson and Master Jack Davis are now confined to their homes with this malady.

SAW OMEN IN SNAKE'S VISIT

Reptile's Appearance in Seminole Indian Council Induced Tribe to Accept Government's Offer.

Old Indians relate that in the deliberations which led to the emigration from the Florida lands to their home in the West, the Seminole chiefs in one council were divided, stubborn and rebellious, and the sentiment was entirely against accepting the proposition of the government. At this time a large snake entered late the council grounds and slowly coiled himself and looked around upon the gathered tribesmen, as though searching them to take counsel of his movements. For a short time he stayed, and then slowly uncoiled himself and leisurely took himself in the westward.

This was taken as an omen by the chiefs and the medicine men, and upon a vote being taken it was unanimously voted to accept the terms of the government and go westward as required. Thus many lives and much expense were saved.

Another curious legend among the very old men is that the "Mingisnee," or the crows, will soon thin out and help the Seminole to regain his lost lands. "This came about probably on account of some old prophie made by the British during the fighting for their land in the Revolution or the War of 1812. And even as late as the Green Peach war, in the early 80s, the old Seminoles proclaimed that the Great war had come and that the "Mingisnee" were coming with great guns to aid the Seminoles in whipping the white man and repairing their lost lands.

SNAKE MAKES FINE MOUSER

Boa-Constrictor Takes Place of House Cat in Some Mexican Households, and Does Well.

In Sinaloa, on the west coast of Mexico, is the old town of Mazatlan, which, because of its position as a port of entry, has an interesting history of various and numerous bombardments which took place during the never-ending revolutions in Mexico.

"Mazatlan," translated, means the "place of the deer." It could well be called "the place of the parrot." For these beautiful birds are sold along the sidewalk by peddlers. On the shopping doors of the better class one can signify the lodging house with a sign reading "Aqui invariably vende" a grave parrot, sitting, like a magistrate, and passing judgment on the passers-by.

But this is not the only representative of the animal kingdom in the boarding houses. In some of the cities a boa constrictor, which hangs lazily from the rafters, is kept to keep down the rats and mice.

In the place of the ordinary house cat. And it is no more dangerous than many herself. The snakes are faithful in their work and take the entire responsibility themselves of killing off rats. For if a cat is found in their territory they take the precaution of removing any rivals in their art by eating the cat.

Pity the Modern Baby.

Despite the fact that the modern baby thrives on what science does for him today, it's a big job to be a baby.

Just when baby is kicking his little pink toes and making an effort to count the funny stitches on his new white crib quilt, a nurse comes along and says: "It's time to take the baby to the doctor," or "It's time for his weighing and measuring," or "It's time to take his temperature," or "It's time to try out his new diet," and just when he's getting ready to close his eyes for a nice long nap some one comes along and says: "It's time to give the baby his tomato juice," and what baby in the world ever likes the taste of tomatoes?

There's a million things science puts over on the baby today when baby is absolutely helpless to prevent the experiment. He may holler his little lungs out, but it doesn't do a bit of good, as crying causes much less concern than it used to, for the baby thereby needs exercise for his lungs and he needs much more discipline than he used to. That's what science thinks.—Minneapolis News.

Too Good to Lose.

The story is told that one of the examiners in a certain school was accosted by the athletic coach.

"If you please, sir," he began, "there are two splendid fellows on the football team—"

"Now stop," said the professor, severely. "If you want to ask me to pass these boys, who have flunked their examinations, just because they are good athletes, I refuse absolutely. There's been—"

"No sir; no, sir," hurriedly interrupted the petitioner, "it's just the other way. They're such brilliant students that I wanted to beg you to make them flunk, so that we could keep them for another year."—Columbia (S. C.) State.

Later, He Knew Better.

Loren was nine and Edmund five. One evening mother put them to bed rather early. About nine o'clock she heard a crash, and knew that one of them had fallen out of bed. As she ran upstairs she decided it was probably the younger, but upon entering his room she found him sleeping soundly. When she reached Loren's room, he was just climbing over the edge of the bed.

"Why, Loren!" she exclaimed, "I thought it was Edmund!"

A sleepy voice answered her, "So'd I, at first!"

Some fellows never look a gift horse in the mouth. They look it all over instead.

EYE AFFECTS WHOLE BODY

Why Routine Examination of School Children Is Imperative Is Explained by Authority.

No Record Of, or Name for, Malaria, Has Been Found Among the American Indians.

Dr. de Schweinitz, in Hygeia, first points out that only about 4 per cent of eyes are entirely normal according to optical standards. At birth nearly all eyes are far-sighted. Near-sighted eyes most commonly make their appearance from the ninth to the tenth year of life, that is to say, especially during school years. Such errors when marked give rise to eyestrain or "weak eyes." While it is true that few eyes are absolutely normal, many approach so closely to the standard that it is doubtful whether they may be considered normal. They do not give rise to discomfort, and correcting glasses are not required, at least, in younger years. But it must be realized further that good vision and painless eyes do not necessarily exclude eyestrain and eyestrain may cause headache, pains in various parts of the body, twitching of the face, night terrors, nervousness, indigestion, and many other symptoms. The need of the routine examination of the eyes of school children is therefore clear, and the possible effects of failure to recognize the fact of eye trouble are pointed out. These effects are not limited to the eye itself. The eye is not confined, as it were, to a little area of its own, subject to disease unconnected with the rest of the body. Quite the contrary. It is "one human in its relations to the rest of the body." "The ophthalmologist must ask, whether they relate to optical faults or to disease, are medical problems, and that is where he used to. That's what science thinks.—Minneapolis News.
